PICKING THE RIGHT ELECTRONIC CHARTING SYSTEM FOR YOUR FACILITY

Presented by Nancy Annegers

Facility staff working with electronic documentation systems may feel they are getting everything they need from the system or they may feel they have gaps that need to be filled. Almost all systems can be adapted to meet the requirements and demands of the provider. The problem is that many providers may not have the knowledge or understanding of the systems they have in place. From a user's perspective, this session will help you learn what to look for, what to ask for, and how to have your system adapt as regulatory requirements continue to change.

Nancy Annegers, BSN, Heritage Enterprises

PHARMACOGENETICS

Presented by Andre Johnson

Pharmacogenetics (PGX) is the study of genetic differences or variations in metabolic pathways which can affect individual responses to drugs, both in terms of therapeutic effect as well as adverse effects. This session will show how PGX testing enhances a physician's ability to provide appropriate treatment plans while also reducing clinical liability and providing numerous patient benefits.

FORENSIC WOUND ASSESSMENT

Presented by Daniel Sheridan

One of the most important responsibilities of nursing home staff is protecting residents from abuse and neglect. When faced with an allegation of abuse, an immediate investigation must be started. Do providers have the knowledge to determine if bruises have been caused by abuse or are they the result of medications the resident is taking? What is their knowledge of defensive wound patterns?

A forensic nurse expert will educate providers on what to look for when assessing residents for abuse; how to determine the nature and cause of injuries; and how to conduct a thorough investigation.
