FREE PRINTABLE WELLNESS POSTERS

Chelsey Byers, a convention speaker from the University of Illinois Extension, asked that we let you know about Free Wellness Posters that are available through the Extension to put up in break rooms and offices. She also asked that we attach a Mindfulness handout that was not available during her convention presentation. She sent the following note.

Each month, Extension provides a free printable wellness poster that can be hung in breakrooms or bathrooms. These pieces are themed by the month and include useful information on food safety, keeping active, financial tips, parenting and much more that will help enrich people's personal and family lives. I've linked the most recent issues (here & here) to give you an idea of what it looks like.

If you are interested in receiving the "Bathroom Buzz" or "Breakroom Buzz" each month, it is important to have the person who would be responsible for printing and posting it sign up for the monthly email.

Once you are added to the subscription list, we'll send you the piece at the beginning of each month so that you can print it for your office. Additionally, if you know of other agencies or organizations in the area that would be interested in receiving this printable, please forward this message or they too can simply sign up at go.illinois.edu/BreakroomBuzz. To sign up, go here.
